ABSTRACT

To determine what graduates in Saginaw, Michigan, (n=491) from two high schools had been doing since leaving school 9 months earlier, a 12-item survey instrument was distributed via mail and telephone. Respondents (n=370) were directed to identify issues relating to their post-secondary education, employment status, and perception/evaluation of their high school education. Results indicated: (1) approximately two-thirds of the graduates were pursuing some form of higher education; (2) over 90% of graduates enrolled in further education felt their high school education was helpful in their current major area of study; and (3) Two-thirds of graduates were working for pay, at an average of 29.5 hours and $143.05 per week. Also presented are graduates' rating of their schools' strengths and weaknesses. Results of the study are intended to provide school board members, administrators, teachers, and counselors with data to further assist them in instructional and curricular planning to better meet the needs of all students. An additional purpose was to aid in establishing "graduate standards," consisting of a set of statements of the adult roles, skills and education all students need in order to be successful in the world after graduation from the district's schools. Appendices present copies of the mail and phone surveys, tabulated survey results, and a description of graduate standards. (RB)

Acknowledgements

The writers of this report would like to acknowledge the contributions of a number of very important people. Without their help, this report could not have been completed.

First, Ms. Julie Walker and Mr. Joseph Fobear for their help in designing a joint follow-up instrument for the Averill Career Opportunities Center (COC) and a parallel instrument for the entire district. Their staff that made phone calls related to both studies are due a special "Thank You".

Then Mr. Gene Nuckolls for arranging with the high school counseling staff to conduct the phone portion of the survey. In this regard, Mr. Robert Foster, Ms. Shirley Nuckolls, Mr. Marshall Thomas, and Mr. James Wilkinson are due a special debt of gratitude for their time in conducting the phone survey of graduates.

Likewise the Evaluation staff for typing, collating, packing, and mailing the mail portion of the survey and also for coding, tabulating, and typing the survey results and the accompanying report are also owed words of "Thanks". They included Mr. Paul Kurecka, Ms. Gwen Laszlo, Ms. Roberta Oldenburg, and Ms. Mary Szymkowiak.

Introduction

In June, 1994, 491 students finished their public school education by receiving a diploma from either Arthur Hill or Saginaw High Schools.

To determine what they have been doing nine months since graduation the Department of Evaluation Services in conjunction with staff from the Averill Career Opportunities Center (COC) created a mail and phone version of a 12-item instrument (see Appendix A for a copy of the mailed instruments and cover letter used) which was mailed to graduates on March 3, 1995. Graduates who didn't respond were called by phone starting March 14, 1995 either by COC staff (if they completed a COC program) or by their high school counselor (see Appendix B for the phone version of the instrument). The questionnaire directed respondents to identify issues related to their post-secondary education, employment status, and perception/evaluation of their high school education. The findings item by item are contained in Appendix D and represent all the responses received by April 6, 1995.

The results of this study should provide Board members, administrators, teachers, and counselors with data to further assist them in instructional and curricular planning to better meet the needs of all students. However, individual responses from the graduates may reflect on their experiences in the COC program, their home high school, or a combination of these two plus other prior educational experiences at the elementary and middle schools. Thus the responses to questions must be understood within the context of the multiple educational experiences of each graduate. This is probably the main reason why the results of the graduate follow-up survey are being used for the first time as one of the "success indicators" related to the District's Strategic Plan. The particular indicator the graduate follow-up survey attempts to measure is the set of ten "graduate standards". These "graduate standards" (see Appendix E for the complete description) are represented in a set of statements of the adult roles, skills and education all students need in order to be successful in the world after graduation from the Saginaw Schools. It represents a consensus of the best knowledge and expertise of the schools' customers, both inside and outside the school system. It comes from people who live, work, and prosper in the world around us. The Saginaw Schools envision all students achieving the graduate standards. They are concisely stated in the following conceptual categories: 1) academic achiever, 2) self-directed learner, 3) complex thinker, 4) effective communicator, 5) individual/group problem solver, 6) strong interpersonal relater, 7) collaborative worker, 8) creative quality producer, 9) community contributor, and 10) health conscious individual. The results that follow represent the baseline year for this "success indicator".

Demographic Data

The 1994 Saginaw Public Schools' graduate follow-up survey was mailed or phoned to 491 graduates (317 from Arthur Hill and 174 from Saginaw High). A total of 370 of the 491 (75.4%) were completed via mail and/or phone.

Table 1 below contains a breakdown by ethnic background and sex of those completing the follow-up questionnaire and the 1994 graduating class.

Table 1

Comparison Of The 1994 Graduate Population With The 1994 Graduates Completing A Follow-Up Questionnaire

Ethnic Background and Gender	1994 Graduates Completing Questionnaire			Population of 1994 Graduating Class
	Number	Percent of Respondents	Percent of Respondents	Number	Percent
TOTAL	370	100.0	75.4	491	100.0
ETHNIC BACKGROUND
White	149	40.3	81.0	184	37.5
Black	185	50.0	72.0	257	52.3
Hispanic	33	8.9	73.3	45	9.2
American Indian	0	0.0	0.0	0	0.0
Oriental	3	0.8	60.0	5	1.0
GENDER
Female	226	61.1	78.5	288	58.7
Male	144	38.9	70.9	203	41.3

A review of the ethnic background of the respondents in Table 1 above shows that 149 (40.3%) were White, 185 (50.0%) were Black, 33 (8.9%) were Hispanic, and 3 (0.8%) were Oriental in terms of ethnic background. The graduating class was made up of 184 (37.5%) White, 257 (52.3%) Black, 45 (9.2%) Hispanic, and 5 (1.0%) Oriental which was approximately the same as in the responding graduates.

The responding graduates were 61.1% female and 38.9% male. The graduating class was made up of 288 (58.7%) females and 203 (41.3%) males. Thus males and females were nearly as proportionately represented in the respondent group as they were in the graduating class.

The findings of the follow-up of 1994 graduates are given on the following pages with the complete set of responses given in Appendix D.

Findings

The reader is again reminded that the complete findings to each survey question are given in Appendix D.

Highlights

A total of 370 graduates responded to the survey. Some respondents gave answers to all appropriate questions while others responded to a few. The results given below are presented as the percentage of graduates giving a response category based on the total number of graduates responding to that particular question.

A review of responses given by the 1994 graduates reveals information about the three major issues explored - post-secondary education, employment, and strengths/ improvements of the Saginaw Schools. The reader should be reminded that the strengths/improvements issue area is where the results relating to the ten graduate standards are most directly measured. These three major issues will serve as organizing concepts for the review of responses given below.

Post-Secondary Education.

- Almost two-thirds of the graduates (62.8% or 219) were in schools, colleges, training or apprentice programs.
- Of the 62.8% going on to further their education, a total of 90.7% attended Michigan schools and the remaining 9.3% attended out-of-state schools and training programs.
- The different types of schools or programs attended included:
  - 50.0% four-year college or university,
  - 26.6% two-year college liberal arts program,
  - 19.7% two-year college vocational-technical program,
  - 1.8% business or trade school,
  - 0.9% one-year vocational-technical program,
  - 0.5% high school, and
  - 0.5% other.

- The graduates ranked (high to low) the major areas they chose to study, as follows:

- Education and social services (20.6%);
- General courses/undecided (19.6%);
- Business (16.7%);
- Engineering and architecture (13.4%);
- Medicine and health services (11.5%);
- Science and agriculture (5.2%);
- Law and government (4.3%);
- Commercial arts and communications (2.4%);
- Services (2.4%);
- Fine arts and letters (1.9%);
- Construction, industrial, and skilled trades (1.0%); and
- Transportation (1.0%).

- When graduates were asked how useful their high school education was in terms of their major area of post-secondary study, a majority (92.3%) indicated "a lot" or "some" and the remainder (7.7%) indicated "hardly any" or "none".

Post-Secondary Employment.

- Some 9.4% of the graduates were on full-time active duty in the military.
- A total of 65.0% of the graduates were working for pay while the remaining 35.0% were not working.
- Some 36.2% of the graduates indicated they are looking for a job.
- Of those working for pay, the mean number of hours worked per week was 29.5 hours with the limits of the range from 4.5 to 80 hours per week.
- Again of those working for pay, the mean amount paid was $143.03 with the limits of the pay range from $21.51 to $800.0 per week.
- Of those working for pay, the level of current job satisfaction varied as follows:
  - 26.3% very satisfied;
  - 53.9% somewhat satisfied;
  - 17.5% not very satisfied; and
  - 2.3% not at all satisfied.

- The top nine employers in terms of percent of graduates employed for pay included:

- Navy/army/marines (12.9%);
- McDonald's (7.6%);
- Taco Bell (3.5%);
- Kessel's (2.9%);
- Little Caesars (2.4%);
- Meijer's (2.4%);
- China Coast (2.4%);
- Target (1.8%); and
- Long John Silver's (1.8%).

(Of the employers, 49.1% of them employed a single graduate from the Saginaw Public Schools.)

- While not employed for pay, a total of 2% or 7 of the graduates were full-time homemakers.
- When the employed for pay graduates were asked how useful their high school education was on their present job, a total of 64.7% indicated they used it "a lot" or "some" while the remaining 35.3% used it "hardly any" or "none".

Strengths/Improvements In The Saginaw Schools.

- Graduates were asked to think over their school career in the Saginaw Schools and decide how much the schools assisted them in six areas by rating each on a five-point scale from 1 = Very Well, 2 = Good, 3 = Undecided, 4 = Poor, and 5 = Very Poor. These six student assistance areas are ranked according to the average rating given in parentheses after each.
  - Career planning, skills needed for work, skills needed to be a wise consumer, and skills to deal with a constantly changing environment (2.2 average rating).
  - Skills needed for higher education (2.1 average rating); and
  - Skills to get along with others (2.0 average rating).
- Graduates were asked to list three major strengths of the high school program. The following are those major strengths that represent more than four percent of the responses.
  - Caring teachers/staff excellent role models/inspirational teachers (14.1%);
  - Averill Career Opportunities Center [COC] (10.2%);
  - Math program (9.6%);
  - Enjoyed COC class(es) (8.5%);
  - Excellent extra curricular activities/sports program (6.8%);
  - Schools stressed getting along with others (6.2%);
  - Taught us how to relate to many different things in a constantly changing environment (4.5%);
  - Excellent reading/writing/literature program (4.5%);
  - Science (hands-on activities, chemistry, physics, etc.) (4.5%); and
  - Center for the Arts and Sciences [CAS] (4.5%).

- Graduates were asked to list three ways the high school program could be improved. The following are those improvements offered that represent more than three percent of the responses.

- Higher standards for courses that students are required to follow (12.9%);
- Get tough on troublemakers and follow consistent discipline policies even for athletes (11.0%);
- Remove grossly incompetent teachers and replace them with competent teachers that allow for student instruction (9.2%);
- Prepare college bound for note-taking, study skills, honor classes, calculator/computer use, etc. (8.0%);
- Better composition classes to prepare students for college writing classes (7.4%);
- More advanced math - trigonometry, advanced placement, etc. (6.8%);
- More training programs for interesting careers (5.5%);
- More variety in classes (electives) (4.9%);
- Better counselors to help students get scholarships and take courses to prepare them for college (4.3%);
- More real world oriented experiences such as "Channel One" (3.7%); and
- Get rid of math programs that discourage females and others having math problems (3.1%).

Summary

The most significant results of the follow-up study (eight months after graduation) of Saginaw's Class of 1994 have been presented. Data relative to the graduates' post-high school education and employment along with perceptions of high school problems, strengths, and an overall evaluation of high school experiences were sought. The reader is reminded that the final section entitled perception/evaluation of the Saginaw Schools is an attempt to measure some of the skills related to the ten graduate standards.

Some 370 of the 491 (75.4%) graduates responded to the survey via phone or mail contact. The responding graduates were proportionally representative of the racial/ethnic and gender groups of the entire graduating class. The representativeness and size of the respondent group allows one to make generalizations to the entire class which adds great value to this information.

Post-Secondary Education

1. Approximately two-thirds of the graduates (62.8%) were in college, school, training, or apprentice programs.
2. Of those graduates furthering their education, most attended either a four-year college or university (50.0%), a two-year liberal arts college (26.6%), or a two-year vocational-technical college (19.7%).
3. The five top study areas of emphasis at college or school included the following:
  - Education and social services (20.6%);
  - General courses/undecided (19.6%);
  - Business (16.7%);
  - Engineering and architecture (13.4%); and
  - Medicine and health services (11.5%).
4. A large majority (92.3%) of the graduates now attending school feel their high school education was "a lot" or "some" help in their current major area of study.

Post-Secondary Employment

5. Almost exactly two-thirds (65.0% or 170) of the graduates were working for pay, while only 2% of the graduates were full-time homemakers. (There were large numbers of employed students who also were pursuing post-secondary education at the same time.)
6. On average most graduates working for pay worked 29.5 hours per week and their pay per week averaged $143.05.
7. A majority (64.7%) of the graduates working for pay feel their high school education was "a lot" or "some" help in their present job.
8. Of those working for pay, 26.3% were "very satisfied" and another 53.9% were "somewhat satisfied" with their current jobs.
9. The four top employers of our graduates included the following:
  - Navy/army/marines (12.9%);
  - McDonald's (7.6%);
  - Taco Bell (3.5%); and
  - Kessel's (2.9%).

Perception/Evaluation Of The Saginaw Schools

10. Graduates rated the Saginaw Schools as being "good" (on a five-point scale ranging from 1 = Very Well to 5 = Very Poor) relative to providing skills in the following areas:
  - Skills to get along with others (2.0 average rating);
  - Skills needed for higher education (2.1 average rating);
  - Career planning (2.2 average rating);
  - Skills needed for work (2.2 average rating);
  - Skills needed to be a wise consumer (2.2 average rating); and
  - Skills to deal with a constantly changing environment (2.2 average rating).
11. The three most frequently mentioned strengths of the Saginaw Schools as provided by responding graduates included:
  - Caring teachers/staff provides excellent role models/inspirational teachers (14.1%);
  - Averill Career Opportunities Center [COC] (10.2%); and
  - Math program (9.6%).

12. The four most frequently mentioned "suggested improvements" to the high school program included the following:

- Higher standards for courses that students are required to follow (12.9%);
- Get tough on troublemakers and follow consistent discipline policies even for athletes (11.0%);
- Remove grossly incompetent teachers and replace them with competent teachers that allow for student instruction (9.2%); and
- Prepare college bound for note-taking, study skills, honor classes, calculator/computer use, etc. (8.0%).

Overall, many insightful responses have been provided through this graduate follow-up study. Hopefully the planned for surveys of these graduates' employers and institutions of higher education will also be as interesting. These surveys and their results are planned for under separate cover scheduled later this Spring if sufficient responses are obtained from the employers and colleges or universities.

The ten graduate standards that relate to the "success indicators" of the District's new Strategic Plan were measured in part by this graduate follow-up of the Class of 1994. The chart below displays the results related to the graduate standards, by item used to measure the standard, and average rating expressed as a grade A thru E or a 5-point scale (1 thru 5).

Graduate Standard(s)	Skill Item Rated on a 5-Point Scale	Average Rating
Academic Achiever	Career Planning	B (or 2.2)
Self-Directed Learner Complex Thinker	Skills needed for higher education	B (or 2.1)
Effective Communicator Collaborative Worker	Skills to get along with others	B (or 2.0)
Individual Group Problem Solver Community Contributor	Skills to deal with a constantly changing environment	B (or 2.2)
Strong Interpersonal Relater Health Conscious Individual	Skills needed to be a wise consumer	B (or 2.2)
Creative Quality Producer	Skills needed for work	B (or 2.2)

As can be seen from a review of the chart above, all ten graduate standards were given a grade of "B" on a scale ranging from A thru E or points 2.0 thru 2.2 on a 5-point scale (where 1 = Very Good, 2 = Good, 3 = Undecided, 4 = Poor, and 5 = Very Poor). The district appears to do the best when it comes to producing Effective Communicator or Collaborative Worker, which were given a "B" (or an average rating of 2.0). The Self-Directed Learner or Complex Thinkers, which were given a "B" (or an average rating of 2.1), followed. Finally, Academic Achiever, Individual and Group Problem Solver, Community Contributor, Strong Interpersonal Relater, Health Conscious Individual, or Creative Quality Producer were last with a grade of "B" or an average of 2.2. Thus, from the standpoint of responding graduates, it is clear that they, on average, grade their school's outcome on the graduate standards as a "B" (or an average rating of 2.0 to 2.2). The employer and higher education surveys will seek to determine if there is agreement on these ratings or whether there are large discrepancies. These reports are planned for publication later this spring.

Dear Graduate:

As you may recall, before you graduated, you placed your name, address, and telephone number on a card to enable us to reach you at a later date. This was to help us to include you in our surveys of the Saginaw Public Schools' graduates.

We are surveying our 1994 graduates as part of our efforts to improve our schools. This is the first of a number of follow-ups through which we hope to learn how you and your former classmates, our 1994 graduates, view their Saginaw Public Schools' experiences.

Enclosed is a copy of the follow-up questionnaire. You will see a six-digit number in the upper right-hand corner; it is how we keep track of who has responded so that only non-respondents will be contacted a second time (by either mail or telephone). All responses you give will be kept in confidence, only grouped responses (no individually identifying information) will be reported.

Please complete the enclosed questionnaire and return in the pre-addressed, stamped envelope by Wednesday, March 15, 1995.

Once you have completed the questionnaire, if you have any additional comments, please feel free to write them on the back of this letter or a separate sheet of paper and send them with the questionnaire. Also, if you anticipate a change in address during the next three years, please indicate what would be the best address to which to contact you then.

Thank you in advance for your time and participation.

Sincerely,

Foster B. Gibbs, Ph.D.
